UM SOCIAL WORK DEPARTMENT
TO CONDUCT FOUR SUMMER WORKSHOPS

MISSOULA--

The Department of Social Work at the University of Montana will conduct four special workshops at a reduced cost in addition to their regular course offerings during the 1973 Summer Session.

The workshops are all approximately one week in length and will be held at various times throughout the summer, according to Robert L. Deaton, assistant professor in the social work department and coordinator of the institutes.

"The workshops and institutes are being offered at a special cost of $5 per credit hour and may be taken for both graduate and undergraduate credit," Deaton said. The workshops range from two to four credits.

Those not desiring college credit for the institutes may register for half the regular fee and receive a certificate of completion.

"Workshops and institutes will be limited to the first 25 registrants and persons are asked to register early. No cash deposits or advance payments are required, but all fees are due the first day of the class," he added.

Deaton said two distinguished visiting faculty members, Raymond H. Clark from Weber State College, Ogden, Utah, and Richard Martinez from the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education, Boulder, Colo., would assist the UM social work faculty in conducting the institutes.

Residence hall accommodations will be available for participants at a nominal fee and the University food service facilities will be open continuously from 6:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.
